

Survey on School Harassment

INTRODUCTION

School harassment is a pervasive issue that affects students across various educational settings. It encompasses bullying, verbal abuse, and other forms of intimidation that can lead to significant emotional and psychological distress. Understanding the perceptions, experiences, and awareness levels of students, parents, and educators is critical for developing effective interventions and support systems. This survey aims to gather quantitative data to identify trends in awareness and perceptions regarding school harassment and to inform strategies for combating this issue.

OBJECTIVES

1. Assess Awareness: To measure the awareness of school harassment issues among students, parents, and educators.
2. Evaluate Perceptions: To understand how individuals perceive the effectiveness of current anti-bullying programs.
3. Identify Needs: To identify gaps in knowledge and resources related to school harassment prevention.
4. Gather Demographic Data: To analyze how awareness and perceptions vary across different demographics (age, gender, role in education).

HYPOTHESIS

1. Students have a lower awareness of school harassment policies compared to parents and educators.
2. There is a significant correlation between the perceived effectiveness of anti-bullying programs and the level of awareness among respondents.
3. Younger students are less likely to report incidents of harassment compared to older students.
